BY GEORGE P. MORRIS.

On would that she where here, These hills and dales among, Where vocal groves are gayly mocked By echo's airy tongue: Where jocund nature smiles In all her boon attire, And roams the deeply-tangled wilds

Of hawthorn and sweet-briar. Oh would that she were here-The gentle maid I sing, Whose voice is cheerful as the songs. Of forest-birds in spring.

Oh would that she were here, Where the free waters leap, Shouting in sportive joyousness, Adown the rocky Steep, Where zephyrs crisp and cool The fountains as they play, With health upon their wings of light And gladness in their way. Oh would that she were here, With these balm-breathing trees, The sylvan daughters of the sun,

The rain-cloud and the breeze.

Oh would that she were here, Where glide the rosy hours, Murm'ring the drowsy hum of bees, And fragant with flowers-Where heaven's redeeming love Spans earth in mercy's bow, The promise of the world above Unto the world below. Oh would that she were here, Amid these shades screne-

To consecrate the scene!

BY W. C. BRYANT. On! deem not they are blest alone Whose lives a peaceful tenor keep; The power who pities man has shown A blessing for the eyes that weep.

The light of smiles shall fill again The lid that overflows with tears; And weary hours of wee and pain Are promises of happy years.

There is a day of sunny rest For every dark and troubled night; And grief may hide, an evening guest, But joy shall come with early light,

And thou, who o'er thy friend's low bier Sheddest the bitter drops like rain, Hope that a happier, brighter shore Will give him to thy arms again.

Nor let the good man's trust depart, Though life its common gift deny, Though pierced and broken he his heart, And spurned of men he goes to die.

For God has marked each sorrowing day, And numbered every secret tear; And Heaven's long age of bliss shall pay For all its children suffer here.

Religion.

BY WM. LEGGET. Like snow that falls where waters glide, Earth's pleasures fade away; They melt in Time's destroying tide, And cold are while they stay! But joys that from religion flow. Like stars that gild the night, Amidst the darkest gloom of woc, Smile forth with sweetest light.

Religion's ray no clouds obscure, But o'er the Christian's scal It sends it radiance calm and pure, Though tempest rounds it roll: But to its latest thrill. Like diamonds shining when they're broke,

PROSPECTUS OF THE AMERICAN WHIG REVIEW.

IN the original Prospectus of the AMERICAN Rg. view, issued at Washington by Mr. Colton, its former Proprietor and Editor, a number of the leading Whig Members of the Twenty-seventh Congress (1845-6) subscribed their names to the following resolution:

"Earnestly average."

Congress (1843-b) subscribed their names to the following resolution:

§ "Earnestly approving the plan of such a National organ, long needed and of manifest importance, the undersigned agree to contribute to its pages, from time to time, such communications as may be necessary to set forth and defend the doctrines held by the United Whig Party of the Union. Signed by Goo. P. Marsh, Daniel D. Barnard, J. McPherson Berrien, J. R. Ingersoll, E. Joy Morris, T. L. Clingman, Daniel Webster, R. C. Winthrop, Thos. Butler King, Hamilton Fish, J. P. Kennedy, J. Collamer, Wm. S. Archer, Rufus Choate, Alexander H. Stephens."

An engraved portrait of some distinguished person will be found in every number of the Review. These will asually be portraits of living American Statesmen, and whenever that is possible, will be accompanied with an authentic Memoir of the person represented.

The objects of the Review are of course political; it is designed to set forth and defend the principles, the measures and the men of the United Hung Panty of the Union. It has been a matter of just reproach to that Party, that though it embraces its due proportion of the intelligence and learning of the country, it has had no Quarterly or Monthly Organ devoted to the expression and defense of the opinions and measures. The conductors of the American Review have sone what in them lies to remove this reproach, by securing contributions from sources of ability and truth.

The literary department of the Review will agree in spirit with the political.

Terms—$5 a year, in advance.
